Data and Digital Economy Law Course for Legal and Industry Practitioners

17 July - 1 August 2023

In Person

SAL, Stamford 1 & 2, The Adelphi #08-08, 1 Coleman Street (S179803)

Covering topics traversing the Data and Digital Economy landscape, participants can look forward to expert instruction by respected practitioners in the field and become familiar with or gain greater understanding of this expansive practice area at the end of the course.

As this is not a basic course, participants should have at least 5 years of Data and Digital Economy Law/TMT practice experience. Non-legal professionals from the tech industry may also register but they should have a good foundation in this area of law, for example, by having attended executive TMT law courses. Participants are expected to be familiar with the basic concepts including governing laws and regulations.
